APPENDIX 1

BRIEF PROJECT DESCRIPTION

The Bangkok Metropolitan Administration (BMA) has decided to implement an Area Traffic Control (ATC) System in Bangkok based on the findings and recommendations of a Feasibility Study on Area Traffic Control System in Bangkok completed in 1989.

This Bangkok ATC System Project - Stage I will replace and expand spatially and functionally the existing Bangkok ATC System that presently controls only 47 intersections in the old city area.

The Bangkok ATC System Project - Stage I to be implemented will cover a total of 143 intersections within an area that can be defined as east of the Chao Phraya River, and bounded by Ratchawithi Road to the north, Soi Asok to the east and Sathorn Road to the south.

The Project will include a centrally controlled signal system for the 143 intersections with the traffic control center to be located at the Traffic Engineering Division at BMA Building 1 at Dinso Road; a traffic surveillance function using vehicle detectors both the ultrasonic and loop coil type as well as Close Circuit Television (CCTV) cameras to be installed at five identified locations.

For the transmission system, the Project will lease and utilize cables owned by the Telephone Organization of Thailand (TOT).

The signal control system is to take cognisance of a two-way reversible traffic circulation scheme to be adopted along certain road sections, the existing railway crossings, and the Expressway and Transit Authority (ETA) expressway construction program.

SCOPE OF WORK

Works for the Bangkok ATC System Project - Stage I requires the appointed Contractor to furnish and install all software and equipment, and do all works necessary to put the system in full and complete operation.

The works to be done by the Contractor shall include, but not be limited to furnish and install the host computer, and other necessary central equipment at the traffic control center; to modify the control center and carry out accommodation works for fitting the central equipment as specified; to furnish and install local controllers, signal heads, handholes, poles and foundation as specified; to furnish and install vehicle detectors both loop coil and ultrasonic types as specified; to furnish and install CCTV cameras at specified locations; to carry out civil and field works on site as necessary for all the equipment.

The Contractor is responsible for the entire scope of work, which shall include the necessary field survey, transportation, furnishing and installation of software and equipment, testing, documentation, commissioning, furnishing operation manuals, training of staff and the supply of spares and consumables for the maintenance of the entire system within the guarantee period.
